

Recovery Network Resource

Extraction of a client from a dangerous environment

Top floor unit with a panoramic view of the Sunset Strip in L.A.

Addicts create "wreckage" in their path of destruction, often leaving it to others to clean up their mess, such as the family. In this case, our client, who suffered from severe addiction, completely "trashed" this apartment, located in the exclusive Hollywood area. The unit had to be completely renovated once it was vacated. We cleaned out all of the personal belongings, drug paraphernalia and drugs. To our client's benefit, we negotiated a "surrender of the unit" and avoided an eviction and criminal charges, sadly, the family had to pay for damages